COMMENCEMENT 2009

It was a cloudy and chilly Sunday in May but the cheers for new graduates were long and heartening. Albertus Magnus College awarded 690 undergraduate and graduate degrees at its 86th commencement exercises, held in front of venerable Rosary Hall, the first building acquired by the College. Sr. Anne Kilbride, O.P., Dr. Margaret Badum Melady and The Honorable Thomas Patrick Melady received the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters.

Honorary Degree Citations

Sr. Anne Kilbride, O.P.

Contemplata aliis tradere—to give to others the fruits of one's contemplation—is the motto of the Dominican Order that you have so nobly served for your entire adult life. ...you have lived that motto in word, deed and many actions. Countless students, faculty, staff and fellow religious have been made better by your leadership. As a member of the Albertus Magnus College Board of Trustees over many years, you have shared your wise and good counsel as the College sought to meet the academic needs of students of all ages and prepare them for the challenges of a still new century. ...today we celebrate your life of extraordinary service, of dedication and commitment to preaching the word in the vibrant spirit and style of the Dominican tradition.

Margaret Badum Melady

...ever urged on by great curiosity and love of learning, you have achieved not one successful career but several. Educator, administrator, writer, corporate executive and global communicator, your service and commitment have enabled you to bridge many worlds in support of Catholic and Christian values. As president of The American University of Rome for six years, you guided Italy's first American independent degree-granting university to a tripling of enrollment. Under your stewardship, The American University of Rome continued to pursue a mission of providing an international community of students with the tools and inspiration to live and work across cultures. ... you personify the words of St. Catherine of Siena: "If you are what you should be, you will set the world ablaze..." and so you have.

Thomas Patrick Melady

...you have provided exemplary service to your country as ambassador to the African nations of Burundi and Uganda, and to the Holy See. Your appointment as adviser to the United States delegation to the United Nations General Assembly affirmed your vast and practical understanding of world affairs. In a distinguished career as educator and university president, you have been an inspiration to students, challenging them to find the solutions to global problems. ...you continue working passionately to develop leaders with a sound grasp of international realities and ethical conduct of statecraft. ...educator and ambassador extraordinaire, the words of St. Thomas Aquinas, a patron of the College, aptly describe your life: "Better to illuminate than merely to shine, to deliver to others contemplated truths than merely to contemplate."

Excerpts from the Charge to the Graduates delivered by Bishop Theodore L. Brooks Sr., Pastor of Beulah Heights Pentacostal Church in New Haven:

... President Obama states that all 'Americans should strive to put themselves in the position of continual learning. No matter how old you are, you are never too old to learn.' So for someone today...it is never too late to go back to school and learn. It is not only for the young, but for the middle aged, and the elderly. ...we must not put off for tomorrow those things that we can either do today or at least start the process today. ...Procrastination is a thief of not only time, but also of our dreams and goals. ...

It is my prayer that we understand the times and the things we must do. Further, it is my prayer that we will the God of Glory to give us the Wisdom and knowledge to propel us forward to leave a legacy for those who are coming behind us. May He grant us wisdom and knowledge to always keep Him first, thus acknowledging that if God is first, He will give us the desire in our hearts. Yet may those desires be a blessing to all mankind in all our endeavors.

CAMPUS NEWS

Dominican Sisters Form New Congregation

Seven U.S. communities of Dominican Sisters—including the Sisters of St. Mary of the Springs, Columbus, Ohio, the founding congregation of Albertus Magnus College—officially united April 12 to form one new congregation: the Dominican Sisters of Peace, who will continue to sponsor the College.

For several years the seven congregations had explored ways to more closely collaborate in their common mission of sharing the Gospel through their many ministries. The Holy See this past spring issued the official decree authorizing the establishment of the Dominican Sisters of Peace. More than 650 sisters serving in 29 states and in Honduras, Peru, Tanzania and Vietnam make up the new congregation. Sister Margaret Ormond, O.P., who received an honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters from the College in 1996, has been elected prioress of the Dominican Sisters of Peace.

Albertus to Offer Classes at Asnuntuck Community College

Albertus Magnus College, through its New Dimensions program, will offer business management degree programs on-site at Asnuntuck Community College in Enfield for Asnuntuck graduates and area residents seeking to earn bachelor's and master's degrees. This innovative partnership will extend access to higher education for many working adults in Northern Central Connecticut and bordering Massachusetts communities. A July 29 gathering, hosted by Asnuntuck President Dr. Martha McLeod, right, took place at the Enfield campus for those from both institutions who were involved in the creation and planning of the new relationship. Both Dr. McLeod and Albertus President Dr. Julia M. McNamara spoke of the great potential and importance of this partnership in serving students and helping them achieve their academic and life goals.

English Class Shares Poems At Whitney Center

For the third consecutive year members of the Albertus freshman English honors class visited with residents of Whitney Center in Hamden, a retirement community, for an inter-generational sharing of favorite and original poems as part New Haven's acclaimed International Festival of Arts & Ideas. Former U.S. Poet Laureate Robert Pinsky created The Favorite Poem Project to celebrate and encourage poetry's role in Americans' lives. Students read their favorite poems—by, among others, Khalil Gibran, Countee Cullen, Billy Collins and William Wordsworth—and shared what the poems meant to them.

New Master of Science in Education Offered in New Haven and East Hartford

This fall Albertus Magnus College will offer its sixth graduate degree: a Master of Science in Education (M.S. Ed.) for Connecticut teachers who have initial certification. The 30-credit program is structured in a flexible evening format of eight-week modules.

Successful completion of two courses each mod enables students to complete the M.S. Ed. in one year. Courses will be given through Education Programs at the Prospect Street campus in New Haven and at the New Dimensions Learning Center in East Hartford.

Dunn Named Dean for Evening and Graduate Programs

Dr. Sheila Dunn joined the College July 1 as dean for the School of Evening and Graduate Programs. She holds an Ed.D. in curriculum and instruction and a M.S. Ed. degree in special education, both from the State University of New York at Buffalo, and a B.A. in English literature, with double minors in biochemistry/philosophy-theology, from St. Joseph College in West Hartford.

With more than 25 years of experience in education, Dr. Dunn has served as a teacher, professor, department chair and director of graduate studies; she also has been a consultant to public and private educational organizations.

Her two most recent books are "Case studies for elementary methods: Meeting the INTASC standards" and "Philosophical foundations of education: From theory to practice."

Aquinas Hall is sporting a new look this fall. Renovation work is complete on the classroom building, which was dedicated in 1966. Redesigned space provides approximately 8,500 square feet of more efficient space for the Information Technology department and the Accelerated Degree Program, and faculty offices. Bree Common will offer lounge and community space for evening students and the Albertus community.

Student Honored at College Academic Day at State Capitol

The Connecticut General Assembly honored Kamala Jackson '09 for outstanding achievement in College Academic Day ceremonies at the State Capitol in May. Each year colleges and universities in the state select students to be recognized for their achievements. Students are introduced to members of the House and the Senate. In addition to her academic achievements, Jackson, a communications major with a minor in English, served on the editorial board of Breakwater, the College's literary magazine, served as a student orientation counselor for three years, completed an internship with AIDS Project New Haven and worked as a sales associate in the College Bookstore. She is from the Bronx, New York.

Chapter of National Hispanic Honor Society Established on Campus

Albertus now has a campus chapter of Sigma Delta Pi, the National Collegiate Hispanic Honors Society. Dr. Christine Dolan Atkins, assistant professor of foreign languages at the College, is the adviser for the Kappa Sigma chapter. A formal ceremony took place at Rosary in May to induct Dr. Atkins as an honorary member, followed by the induction of students Anthony Arnold, Theresa Flood and Katherine Gustafson. Membership requirements are: completion of at least 18 hours of college-level Spanish and Hispanic literature; minimal grade point average of 3.0 in all Spanish courses; ranking in the upper 35 percent of their class; and deep appreciation, interest and understanding of the Spanish language and Hispanic letters.

All-Student Production of "The Tempest" a Major Hit

Judith Sirota Rosenthal

In a birthday salute to William Shakespeare, the English Club presented performances of "The Tempest" April 23 (his birthday), 24 and 25 on the lawn at Sansbury Hall. The all-student production was a hit with more than 300 people who attended the performances, which were free and open to the entire College community. Carolyn "Charlie" O'Brien, who graduated in May and was president of the English Club, had the idea for the production. "I thought it was a shame that there are so many young people who are turned off to Shakespeare, simply because they don't understand it and have never seen it performed," she said. "I wanted to give students the opportunity to become involved in something, with the hopes that it would inspire people, including community members, to become passionate about the arts and the beauty of Shakespeare."

Charlie, who served as producer and director, stage production manager, prop master, and costume and set design manager, also played the role of Caliban. Alex Cannon was assistant director and Victoria Gravina, assistant stage production manager; they will be running the English Club during the coming academic year and plan another production of one of Shakespeare's plays.

Quick Notes:

- "Tengu: The Mountain Goblin," the latest novel by John Donohue, vice president for academic affairs, was a silver medalist finalist in the 2009 Benjamin Franklin Awards of the Independent Book Publishers Association. It is the third in his series of books featuring Conor Burke, anthropologist, martial arts student and instructor. Other Conor Burke novels are "Sensei" and "Deshi."
- In June AMC sophomore Heather Cassella participated in the Favorite Poem Project Community Reading, part of New Haven's International Festival of Arts & Ideas. Her favorite poem: "You Can Never Tell," by Ella Wheeler Wilcox. Also taking part was Bernadette Holodak, director of development, who read her favorite, "The Giving Tree" by Shel Silverstein. Robert Pinsky, former Poet Laureate of the United States created the project to promote interest in poetry.
- In April, Bill Earls, an adjunct professor in the Accelerated Degree Program, took second prize in the Gerard F. Melito Senior Citizens Poetry Contest sponsored by the Central Connecticut branch of Altrusa International, a service organization dedicated to literacy issues. The award was for his poem "Thoughts as Someone I Love Contemplates Darkness," an earlier version of which appeared in Breakwater 2006, the campus literary magazine.
- This fall a group of early childhood teachers from the New Haven School System will return to Albertus as part of a degree completion program under a grant-funded initiative begun in 2008 to enhance the educational level of the city's early childhood teachers. The program helps them complete a B.A. in psychology with a concentration in child development. Initiated by Reginald Mayo, Ph.D., superintendent of schools, and Tina Mannarino, Ph.D., director of early childhood education for the city, the program is under the joint direction of Stephen Joy, Ph.D., chairman of the psychology department at Albertus, and Joan Venditto, Doctor of Arts, director of education programs. The group expects to complete requirements for the bachelor's degree approximately a year from now.
- In July, the Master of Arts in Art Therapy program and The Connecticut Art Therapy Association held a colloquium in the Tagliatela Academic Center Atrium. Making presentations were Amanda Salzano '09 MAAT, The Effectiveness of a Collaborative Art-making Task on Reducing Stress in Hospice Caregivers; Maggie Moller Raucci '01, '08 MAAT, The Draw-A-Person-in the Rain as a Measure of Stress and Coping in Children; and Crystal Schrade, current MAAT student, Physiological Effects of Mandala-making in Adults with Mental Retardation.

REUNION 2009

From across the country, alumni converged on New Haven in June for Reunion 2009. It was a time to re-connect with classmates and with the College, to enjoy the familiar and explore the new. The Class of 1959, celebrating its 50th Reunion, presented the College with a check for $44,500 toward scholarship aid. Sister Christine Cosgrove '74 received the Alumni of the Year Award for her many years of service as a teacher, administrator and passionate advocate for involvement in the global community.

Prospect Hill Society

Many loyal alumni and friends have indicated that they have included Albertus Magnus College in their estate planning. To recognize, honor and say thank you to these benefactors, the College has established the Prospect Hill Society.

If you have mentioned Albertus in your will or other estate plans, please let us know. We will list you as a Member of the Prospect Hill Society in the College's 2008–2009 Annual Report. Please contact Carolyn Behan Kraus '86, director of alumni relations and special events, at alumni@albertus.edu or Bernadette Holodak, director of development, at development@albertus.edu, or call 203-773-8502.

Louise Garvey Hogan, Branford, CT reports that after retiring to Hilton Head Island "we missed the children and are back to Connecticut. We did the right thing."

Alice Harten Kolega, Mansfield Center, CT, has seven children, ten grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Retired from Eastern Connecticut State University, she tutors at an ESL program and at a correctional center.

Faith Augur McCarthy, Northford, CT, and Bob enjoy time with their two daughters, sons-in-law and four grandchildren. She is an Extraordinary Minister of the Eucharist and lector at her church.

Jean McInnis Robichaud, Attleboro, MA, did not make it to Reunion this year because of four family graduations. She and Robert have 5 children, 15 grandchildren and 5 great-grandchildren. A retired teacher, she is involved with two church ministries, and enjoys gardening and travel.

Joan Cunningham Scully, Naples, FL, missed Reunion because she had a knee replacement in the spring. She is "doing well, no cane," but didn't feel up to making the trip. She spends summers in Pinehurst, North Carolina.

Alice Keenan Terenzio and Vincent live in Hamden, Connecticut. Retired, she is involved in local politics and volunteers "when and where needed."

1950 60th Reunion June 12, 2010

Sona Topjian Frissora, Boston, MA, reports that she has moved several times and had lost touch with the College. She notes that at a school event for her granddaughter, she talked with someone who said she thought Albertus was no longer in existence. "Of course I went to the Web and was pleased to learn that the school is thriving," she writes.

Miranda Henry-Phillip, Atlanta, GA, recently received her M.B.A. from the University of Phoenix. She is currently a director of human resources in the healthcare industry.

Loving Lifelong Learning

For Ken LaRoche '05 lifelong learning truly is a way of life. A trained medical attendant who works with elderly and homebound patients, he has decided to become a nurse. At Albertus he received a B.S. in management with a specialization in health care. Working as a management trainee, he found that he preferred to work directly with patients. Now at age 43, this resident of Deep River, Connecticut, will be heading back to school in the fall—starting a program at the University of Southern Maine—for his second bachelor's degree, this time in nursing, a field that he has for a long time considered his true calling.

LaRoche is the first adult student to receive the Deep River Rotary Club's annual scholarship. Recently interviewed for a story in the Valley Courier, he said that Rotary has given him much more than a scholarship: "Being a member of Rotary helped me grow as a person; it gave me self-confidence and made me believe in myself." LaRoche already has set his next goal: becoming a nurse practitioner. "I love to learn," he says.

2006 5th Reunion June 11, 2011

Julio Casiano, Windsor, CT, has joined the United States Small Business Administration as Connecticut district director.

Michael Gilman, West Haven, CT, who received a master's degree in biology from Southern Connecticut State University in 2008 and taught there during the past academic year, will be teaching "Ecology of Long Island Sound" at Albertus this year.

Nicholas Wajnowski, West Haven, CT, received a master's degree in management of sport industries from the University of New Haven in May.

Fill in the blank:

Reunions are _____. What did you think of first?

I can think of so many perfect words to describe what reunions have been for me, in the forty-one years since my Albertus graduation: interesting, fun, social, and emotional.

Another word, based on my experience planning our 35th reunion, is “work.” It was work I enjoyed, which brought me closer to many classmates and to my College.

I recently learned that most reunion classes do not have a class coordinator, and I recommend that Albertus alumni consider creating such a role. I volunteered in 2003: my nest was empty; I had retired early, and had some time.

Because of technology, it was not difficult – and has become even easier – to be in contact with classmates through mailings, phone calls, and email. I have recently been having fun with classmates on Facebook.com!

Last year, one of my daughters bought a house in New Haven, so I visit often to help with granddaughter Lucia. Recently, I had lunch and a campus tour with Alumni Director Carolyn Behan Kraus '86, and we talked about reunions.

Celebrating five-year intervals, class reunions are scheduled for late spring – in 2010, save the date: June 12. Carolyn, who runs a one-woman office, puts together the basics: campus tours, the luncheon and Saturday evening buffet dinner for everyone, and a Mass. In 2010, Albertus Magnus College will have its 85th anniversary! All alumni are welcome to campus during reunions, not just for special years.

There are special accommodations made for the golden reunion: at 50 years out, grads pay no fees for the reunion! In addition, any reunion class can work with Carolyn to have more fun.

Although graduates are not able to stay in the dorms, classes have had dinners and parties in the houses. For our 35th, the class of 1968 (in addition to the regular reunion activities) had a dinner at a local restaurant. It was a great night, with only members of the class in attendance. Someone had the idea that each of us stand up and share a special Albertus memory. There was laughter and tears, as one anecdote led to another.

Carolyn will provide what she can: mailing lists (or labels, or even mailings), suggestions for vendors and venues, and whatever resources the College is able to offer. She also finds it helpful to have a reunion coordinator for each class but may not always know who to ask. That has to come from us! We all know when our special reunions are scheduled – my next will be a 45th in 2013. For 2010, if you are a '0 or a '5 – think about volunteering!

The college provides many other opportunities to return to campus for social, cultural, spiritual, and academic events. The Fall Fest, focused on younger alums, is a great opportunity for a group of college friends to find a block of hotel rooms, take over a B&B, or even rent a beach house.

The monthly electronic newsletter informs us about the college calendar. There will be a new Web site in the fall, with more content and opportunities. Carolyn told me: “I want people to come back and have a good time.” The resources are available; we can make reunions what we want them to be.

I also learned that the 50th reunion classes have a tradition of creating a $50,000 endowed scholarship. What a wonderful gift of future opportunities for young people and for the College, and I know that our class will get started early to meet this goal. Classes have created 50th reunion yearbooks with pictures, old and new. There is no limit to what creativity and planning can accomplish.

We can make the words of the College Alma Mater come true:
When the present is an echo, In the hearts that from you came,
Songs of youth and friendship's embers, Will rekindle at your name.
