ALBERTUS MAGNUS COLLEGE

A Catholic College in the Dominican Tradition

Board of Trustees

The Mission of Albertus Magnus College

STATEMENT OF MISSION

The mission of Albertus Magnus College is to provide men and women with an education that promotes the search for truth in all its dimensions and is practical in its application. Founded by the Dominican Sisters of Saint Mary of the Springs, Albertus Magnus College, faithful to its Catholic heritage and the Judeo-Christian tradition, remains dedicated to providing an opportunity for learning which responds to the academic needs and ethical challenges of its students and of society.

This mission of Albertus Magnus College derives from the intellectual tradition of the Dominican Order whose essential charism is the search for truth (Veritas). Reflective of the dedication and commitment to service of our founder and sponsor, we at Albertus assume responsibility for the fulfillment of our particular service as an academic community.

Dear Alumni and Friends of Albertus,

In September 2011 we concluded the year-long celebration marking the 85th Anniversary of the founding of Albertus Magnus College. We thank the many alumni who shared with us their stories of the ways Albertus enriched or changed their lives. We are grateful to the alumni and friends who expressed heartfelt congratulations, visited our beautiful campus for special events and generously supported the College in many ways.

Milestone celebrations, whether on a personal, community or college level, provide opportunities to review the past and its record of accomplishment. Such events also remind us to look to the future with renewed vigor and thoughtful determination. So it is here at Albertus Magnus College where we celebrate our Catholic and Dominican roots which have been the hallmarks of our 85 years. It is this heritage that energizes and strengthens us as we look to the future.

We are inspired by the enthusiasm of our students of all ages; by the commitment of our distinguished faculty; and by the service of our administrative and support staffs. The College's Strategic Plan for 2009–2014 is a framework for the future; it is a document that urges us to continued development and growth.

The multi-year renovation process at our iconic Rosary Hall will yield a true transformation of our Library into a 21st century technologically-enhanced and flexible space which is becoming a "Learning Commons" for individual and collaborative study.

At summer's end, we completed the renovation of the Celentano Athletic Field and Track at our Prospect Street campus, with the installation of a new turf surface. This project signals a new era in athletics for the College, as we expand our existing program to include women's and men's lacrosse. In spring 2012 lacrosse will be a club sport, with intercollegiate competition beginning in spring 2013.

As Albertus Magnus College grows and changes, we dedicate ourselves to the fulfillment of our mission and purposes.

Faithfully yours,

Dr. Julia M. McNamara
President

Academic Life

The Traditional Day College, the heart of Albertus, is grounded in the liberal arts, which provide the foundation for the knowledge and skills needed to build meaningful lives and careers. Here, classes are small, and highly-qualified faculty members know their students by name. Here, students develop insight into the world and their place in it, and develop a passion for lifelong learning. The search for truth in all its dimensions endures. Albertus Magnus College offers a range of programs to meet the academic needs of students at various points in their life's journey. Sydney McAvoy '11, for example, pursued her undergraduate degree on a traditional timetable: right out of high school. She found at Albertus a place that fit all her criteria and gave her opportunities to excel in the classroom and in internships, serve as a writing associate and math tutor, as well as participate in activities such as the dance team and literary magazine.

Learning takes place in class and around the campus, as well as at enrichment programs that bring nationally-known speakers to campus.

I have built strong relationships with many of the faculty members. I run into professors I had my first semester here, and they still call me by name, know my major, and ask me about my plans after graduation. It's true that at Albertus you are a face and not a number. People here have been my mentors, my sounding boards, and because of them, I have grown more confident in who I am. Albertus has allowed me to grow and mature, guiding me to become the woman I have always wanted to be.

Adult students are on campus for evening classes, and also have the opportunity to participate in Fall Fest and Experiential Learning Day. The Dominican motto—Contemplata Aliis Tradere, to give to others the fruits of contemplation—circles the second-floor balcony of the Tagliatela Academic Center.

I learned that pursuing higher education as a working adult and parent is both extremely challenging and rewarding.

Adult Programs

Many working adults begin their educational journey long after high school. For Lianne Escher '82, Bob Gagne, a student in the Master of Arts in Leadership program, and Tina Ocone-Ramirez, a graduate of the Master of Arts in Liberal Studies in 2010, the journey continues when life is more complicated, but the long-postponed dream of a college education or advanced degree finally finds fulfillment. The School of Evening and Graduate Programs and the School of New Dimensions tailor offerings to the needs of working adults: convenient, accelerated and blended classes combine on-campus and on-line learning. The College offers the same caring and supportive environment in its adult programs as it does in the Traditional Day College. Flexible evening schedules are offered at the main and Long Wharf campuses in New Haven, and in East Hartford. Articulation agreements with community colleges facilitate the transfer of credits by their students.

“Today both my husband and my daughter are studying here, and I’m very proud of them.”

Laurie Sim Gagne, Bachelor of Arts '83, Political Science Major

Laurie Sim Gagne found Albertus attractive because it was local and its small classes provided great professor/student interactions. “My role models were always strong people, well-spoken and respectful of others; and the minute that I came to Albertus, I was surrounded by smart, moral women,” she says.

Bob Gagne, who will receive a Master of Arts in Leadership in 2012, met his wife while she was a student here. “I’ve always loved this campus. When my son’s swim team practiced at the College’s pool, I would go to the library to read.” Returning to school for a master’s degree was always in Bob’s mind, but in the reality of life and work and raising a family, the time was never right. Starting a master’s program 30 years after graduating from college wasn’t easy, but now is the right time for him. Someday he would like to teach and knew he would need a master’s degree. “Leadership is something I practice every day,” says this police chief.

Morgan Gagne is a sophomore at Albertus. She remembers, as a fifth-or-sixth grader, hearing her mother talking about how much she liked her days at the College. After that, Albertus was always on her list of colleges. “It’s a good place to get a formal education and learn about yourself,” says Laurie. “We love being an Albertus family.”

Albe Leg

Legacy students are those with a family member who has graduated from the College. They come back to the College. The first at Albertus: a member of the class of 1929, a graduating class who graduated daughter who graduated in 1955 and a graduate of the Class of 1960. These connections can introduce you to a family with an Albertus connection.

In her mid-thirties, Lianne Escher found her life as an individual, rather than someone defined by various roles. “I knew that I wanted, someday, to help others as I was being helped to recreate my life,” she says. It was that resolve that led her to Albertus, where she gained the confidence to pursue her interest in psychology. While a student here, she also attended lectures at the Carl Jung Institute in New York City, and after five years of part-time study at Albertus received her degree. She studied for three years in a master’s program at Smith College School for Social Work, and has a psychotherapy practice. “I so appreciate the impact that the meaningful experiences at Albertus had on my life.”

Athena Thompson, Escher’s daughter, remembers hearing about Albertus as a teenager, but she too came to Albertus as an adult: “I worked after high school and didn’t find my way back to college until I was 32. I had two very young children, but I wanted to be on campus during the day for a full college experience. It was worth every minute of juggling my time.”

Elijah Beebe-Maddix, Thompson’s son, also grew up with first-hand knowledge of Albertus, often coming to campus with his mother. When it was college-time, a campus tour helped him decide that Albertus was the right place to be.

Learning Commons

Rosary Hall, built as a private residence in 1906, is the oldest building at Albertus Magnus College, and it remains today the spiritual and academic heart of the College. With its soaring columns and magnificent façade, it now is the entryway to the Learning Commons, a library transformed and reinvented, ready to serve the needs of 21st century students and faculty. A technologically-enhanced, flexible space for scholarly research and collaborative study by students of all ages, the Learning Commons also houses the Center for Teaching and Learning Excellence, and the Offices of Academic Advisement and Student Success, and Experiential Learning. The extensive interior renovations in Rosary Hall respect and maintain the magnificent architectural beauty of this iconic building, the backdrop for decades of Commencement ceremonies. Members of the New Haven community can arrange for a community patron card at Rosary. For more than a century, Rosary Hall has been a jewel on Prospect Hill.

A renovated Rosary Hall beckons students of all ages to a place for individual research and collaborative study. Every year new graduates for all programs gather in front of Rosary Hall to celebrate achievement and fulfillment of an educational journey.

The structure and the course content of the Liberal Studies program were the right match for my personal and academic pursuits. The professors were very supportive. I found that the intimate seminar-style, our intense discussions and the freedom to choose our own research projects allowed me to really express myself and excel. I learned that pursuing higher education as a working adult and parent is both extremely challenging and rewarding...

It gave me a deeper level of pride in myself, a greater sense of accomplishment.

It is as important for our student-athletes to strive to be champions in the classroom, in the community and in life after graduation, as it is to be champions on the field or court.

Michael Spinner, Director of Athletics

Student-athletes excel in the classroom and on the field. Frankie Falcon makes appearances at both College and community events. This year the College completed the installation of a new turf field. Expansion of the athletic field also improved a walking track used by the College community and neighbors for many years.

Falcon Pride

At Albertus Magnus College, athletics are an important part of the educational journey, woven into the fabric of our campus. Here, athletics are a partnership of sound mind and sound body. "It is as important for our student-athletes to strive to be champions in the classroom, in the community and in life after graduation as it is to be champions on the field or court," says Michael Spinner, director of athletics. "We emphasize victory as a by-product of doing things the right way."

The College is a member of the NCAA, Division III; our women and men student-athletes compete in 12 varsity sports, taking part in the Eastern College Athletic Conference and the Great Northeast Athletic Conference. A newly-installed turf playing field will be used by the Falcon soccer teams and brand-new lacrosse programs. In 2012 lacrosse will be available as a club sport and move to varsity level in 2013.

I believe in tenacity and hard work, and in respect for new ideas and relationships. This is what enables one to make a difference. I care deeply about New Haven, and I'm committed to the Dwight community and to improving the quality of life for our neighborhood residents. My experience in getting my undergraduate degree and my M.B.A. at Albertus has opened up so many opportunities for me in my current work. I liked that Albertus was small and that it had spiritual values.

85 Years...and counting

In the life-cycle of a college, change is omnipresent. It is the inspiration that propels the mind and spirit into a new future. So it has been with Albertus Magnus College for more than 85 years. It was a bold move, a change, in 1925 to create the first Catholic, liberal arts, residential college for women in New England, but the founders—the indomitable Dominican Sisters of St. Mary of the Springs, now known as the Dominican Sisters of Peace—were up to the task. The school endured and flourished, always true to its mission of service: now providing women and men with an education that promotes the search for truth in all its dimensions and is practical in its application. Our College builds on a rich tradition and heritage, yet it is ever mindful of meeting the changing academic needs and ethical challenges of students of all ages and of society.

We are emboldened and energized by the prospects for the future of Albertus Magnus College, and we look forward to our centennial celebration in 2025.
