We Walk With Our Domincan Heritage

The St. Albert Atrium in the Tagliatela Academic Center is a giant solar calendar. As the sun moves across the sky it shines through the southern window wall of the Atrium. Incorporated into the window wall is an etched glass representation of the College's seal superimposed on the black and white seal of the Dominican Order. Light streaming through the red center of the seal illuminates floor tiles that represent significant Dominican and College events at one o'clock on the specific date.

S trong leadership is a hallmark of Albertus Magnus College. This is embodied by our remarkable leaders, from modern day back to the College's beginning. In the early 1920s Mother Stephanie Mohun, Dominican Sister of St. Mary of the Springs (now known as the Dominican Sisters of Peace) heard from local parents that the New Haven area needed a Catholic college for women. She took on the challenge and became the foundress of Albertus Magnus College, honoring the noted teacher and theologian

FOUNDERS' DAY

St. Albert the Great. The new Catholic, liberal arts, residential college for women opened its doors in September 1925.

In addition to the Dominican religious who made up the first faculty, Mother Stephanie also engaged distinguished professors from Yale University. In 1926, Nicholas Moseley left Yale to become provost of Albertus and chairman of the Classics department. He firmly established the academic standards that have guided Albertus over the decades.

Eighty-seven years later, the College is led by another visionary woman, Dr. Julia M. McNamara. Building on the solid foundation established by the Dominican sisters, for 30 years Dr. McNamara has guided the College's growth and commitment to its mission. Her vision for the future continues to inspire the academic goals of students and faculty.

"Plan everything for the future as if you have a million dollar endowment. In fact, you have something more secure—faith and trust in the providence of God."

Mother Stephanie Mohun, O.P.

Celebrating 30 Years

Dr. Julia M. McNamara has been at the helm of Albertus Magnus College since 1982. Her commitment to both Albertus students and to the greater New Haven community is legendary.

O To what do you attribute your success at Albertus?

Actually, it is the entire Albertus community, of both yesterday and today, whose members remain ever faithful to the academic mission. That mission springs directly from the commitment, vision and dedication of both our extraordinary, courageous founders and of their successors who have been, and are today, our trustees, faculty and administrators. These remarkable persons have made the deliberate and continuous effort to ensure, over changing and often tumultuous times and in the company of many generations of students, that the search for truth in all its dimensions, in the spirit and style of the Dominicans, would thrive here.

O What are the hallmarks of an Albertus education?

We are strongly grounded in the liberal arts, a feature which is continually strengthened by our distinguished faculty and all those who have been a part of Albertus over the years. That said, our mission demands that knowledge be shared, as called for in the motto of our Dominican founders. Therefore, we are committed to offering to each of our students the goal of a liberal arts education which is practical in its application. It is fitting that Rosary Hall, the oldest building on campus, has been transformed into a 21st century Information Commons. We are committed to bringing students the information technology services that are so important and valuable in education today. We are a Catholic College in the Dominican Tradition. This defines us, and it differentiates us from other colleges.

O If you had to pick a favorite Albertus memory during your presidency, what would it be?

A It has been a great privilege to serve, and it continues to be a privilege to serve as president here. There are many memories, certainly, of faculty and staffs who have helped the College evolve to where it is today; of students eager to make a difference in the world; of meeting alumni, benefactors and friends of the College across the country. Perhaps my favorite memory is of Commencement Day. This is the day when students celebrate their remarkable achievement: the attainment of an academic degree in the company of the College community and their personal guests. There's an extraordinary excitement on campus as Commencement approaches. And, of course, our graduating classes are extremely diverse reflecting the College's population as a —reflecting the College's population as a whole. Our degree recipients may be a traditional 21-year-old or a not-sotraditional 65. Many of our graduates are the first in their families to obtain a college degree; others are receiving a first or second master's degree. They leave us, heading to law or medical schools, Peace Corps, Teach for America, or back to a workplace where they may now be in line for a promotion because of a degree earned. As they cross the Rosary Hall steps to accept both diplomas and congratulations, this is the moment which is ever a favorite memory.

What do you see next for Albertus?

A We are a small college with big ideas and the capacity to put them into action. Over the years, we have repeatedly mulled over the question: "Who has a problem we can help to solve?" Thus, we engage collaboratively in planning and in seeking solutions, and to that end, we continue to add new courses, new majors, and new approaches. Albertus is missiondriven, and this focus is what guides us every day as we educate and nurture our student body. Our rich heritage will continue to inspire and sustain us.

We Celebrate Together SEPTEMBER 21, 2012

On September 21, 2012, close to 500 "friends and family" of Albertus came together to celebrate the first annual Founders' Day. Kicking off with Candlelight Ceremony, the oldest tradition on campus, guests then enjoyed a campus-wide picnic and President McNamara's anniversary cake, a presentation by special guest, Sister Margaret Ormond, O.P., prioress of the Dominican Sisters of Peace, the blessing of the presidential portraits and launch of the heritage display, and a closing reception in Rosary Hall's beautiful Italian Garden.

STUDENT ALUMNI ASSOCIATION GATHERING

Keepers of Our DOMINICAN SPIRIT

St. Catherine of Siena Chapel

All around us here are the daily reminders of our Dominican heritage. In the St. Catherine of Siena Chapel, five magnificent windows designed by Sr. Thoma Swanson, O.P., an internationally-recognized stained glass artist and former chairperson of the College's art department, add light and brilliant color to a place of prayer and reflection. The windows interpret aspects of a water theme. Sr. Thoma views her art as a form of preaching and teaching the gospels.

tudents, faculty, staff and alumni are the keepers of our Dominican spirit. Their compassion for their fellow man and lifelong love of learning embody the principles we strive to live each day.

This spring, Campus Ministry was voted by students as the best student organization on campus. Michael Caporale '12, student leader of the group, accepted the award on behalf of all members of Campus Ministry. Among its activities were weekly Bible Study, weekly Night Prayer, and a Day of Prayer and Reflection for faculty in the fall, and for administration in the spring. Eleven students made a commitment to the Dominican Tradition, focusing on prayer, study, forming community and service to others. Service projects included collecting school supplies for youngsters at St. Francis/St. Rose of Lima School and volunteering there as tutors. Albertus students also collected funds for a renovation project at Life Haven, a local temporary shelter for homeless pregnant women and women with young children, and they raised money for refugees in Somalia.

In August 2011, Sr. Anne Kilbride, O.P., joined the College's staff in the new position of special assistant to the president for the promotion of the Catholic, Dominican heritage. As part of her outreach efforts to develop social and academic connections with national and international Dominican teachers and preachers, she created the St. Thomas Aquinas Lecture Series. In its first year, the series brought three distinguished Dominican scholars to campus to speak to students and to the public; the second series begins this fall. Several hundred members of our Albertus community have enjoyed the series.

On November 28, 2012, faculty and staff who participated in the biennial Dominican Colloquium, and a student who participated in the Dominican Preaching Conference, will share their experiences at a lunchtime Dominican Forum on campus.

"Scripture is the basis for most of my work. I don't set out to preach directly, but simply to present the truth with passion." Sr. Thoma Swanson, O.P.

Dominican Tradition: Alive in the Classroom

Two professors who attended the Dominican Colloquium in June at Dominican University in River Forest, Illinois, Dr. Robert Bourgeois (left) and Dr. Jeremiah Coffey (right) shared their thoughts about the conference and its impact on their teaching.

Q With fewer members of the Dominican order having a presence on campus, how do we continue to foster and sustain a "Dominican" culture at Albertus?

Dr. Robert Bourgeois: At the community level, a culture consists of rituals, symbols, ceremonies and activities which express the passionate Dominican openness to God in the here and now. At the personal level, one might "become Dominican." This begins with seeking to acquire what Dominican theologian Edward Schillebeeckx termed "a happy and tranquil spirituality" rooted in "the priority of God's grace in any human action."^[1]

Dr. Jeremiah Coffey: Clearly, the Catholic and Dominican character of the College has changed considerably since what it was in, say, the 1950s. In such a situation, I think the approach that Sr. Anne Kilbride is taking is a wise and prudent one. She has not laid out a comprehensive plan for culture building. a fruitless endeavor, but has patiently cultivated what she has found here, striven to bring the best of contemporary Dominican thinking and practice to campus [guest speakers] and to expose members of the community to it [Colloquium]. She is exploring possibilities, testing ideas, and seeing what takes hold. Cultures aren't built, they emerge naturally, and Sr. Anne is working to maximize the possibility that seeds will germinate and take root.

^[1] Edward Schillebeeckx, "Appendix: Dominican Spirituality," in Erik Borgman, Dominican Spirituality, translated by John Bowden (London and New York: Continuum, 2001), 102.

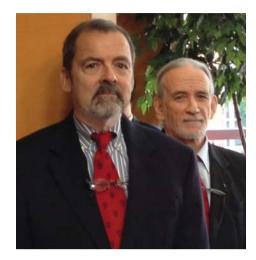

O What is the link between our contemporary students and the Dominicans of centuries past?

Dr. Jeremiah Coffey: Historical consciousness is at an all-time low in general, and it is doubtful that many of our students were ever exposed to Dominican history, per se. The more substantive links that can be fostered, I think, flow more from the aspects of the Dominican spirit that are so appropriate for and needed in today's world. I refer to the openness to nature and science of both Albert and Thomas, for example, the prophetic resistance to oppression and striving for justice of Bartolemé de las Casas, and the sacramental and mystical sensibility of Thomas and Eckhart. The tradition is rich and does speak eloquently to our time.

Dr. Robert Bourgeois: Like the students of today, the Dominican community in New Spain 500 years ago sought God in the wilderness of greed, cynicism, and heartlessness, even in the Church. Like those Dominicans, our students are open to finding God in the space between the gospel and the realities of the world, the space between dogma and real life. Students have a natural compassion for those left out of the banquet: the unloved, unfree, unwanted, and underestimated. The Dominicans found God precisely among these outcasts.

Dr. Robert Bourgeois: The classroom is a natural setting for a "long, loving look at the real." Courses in anthropology, humanities, and global studies expose the students to the concrete realities of suffering and oppression, and train us to contemplate "with a thinking heart" our inescapable historical and contemporary connections to the struggle for justice. Dominicans past (Bartolomé de las Casas) and present (Arlene Flaherty) enter the classroom and inspire students with the possibility of living a life of purpose and holiness.

Dr. Jeremiah Coffey: It will not so much be a question of the particulars of the Colloquium that will find their way into the classroom, but more explicitly identifying what is already there and naming it as a legacy of the Dominican tradition. Several of the courses that I currently teach are consciously premised on the Dominican attitudes toward science and nature and sacramental awareness. Of late, I have been conscious of not letting an opportunity pass by to make these connections clear to students.

SERVICE, PRAYER, REFLECTION

Corey Schmidt, director of academic advising and student success, attended the Dominican Colloquium at Dominican University in River Forest, Illinois, and it is having a daily impact on her classroom work. "I now ask students enrolled in the Introduction to College Life course to volunteer for three hours with an organization of their choice. Each student is then asked to reflect on his or her experience volunteering and speculate on how helping others is connected to our mission and the Dominican tradition. Students do not have to be Catholic to benefit from the value of our Dominican heritage. The Colloquium taught me how to integrate the mission of the College into my assignments," she says.

Samantha Suarez '15 and Sister Helen Kieran, O.P., director of Campus Ministry, attended the Dominican Preaching in Action Conference at Dominican University, River Forest, Illinois, in May. This annual gathering for college-age students and mentors explores Dominican spirituality and preaching, prayer service, community and creative ways of making preaching and the Word come alive.

Why is the Falcon Our Mascot?

Carrying Out

St. Albert the Great, patron saint of the College, developed a lifelong interest in falconry. As the Albertus mascot, the falcon represents our fiercely competitive athletic teams. You will find mascot Frankie Falcon on the sidelines of basketball courts and soccer fields cheering for our teams.

The always-fashionable Frankie Falcon debuted a new look this fall at Albertus Madness, the first official practice of the men's and women's basketball teams.

Guided by the principles of our Dominican founders, an Albertus education promotes the search for truth in all its dimensions and is practical in its application. Woven into the fabric of our lives here on campus are reminders of our Dominican heritage and commitment to sharing the fruits of our contemplation. From the water wall in the Tagliatela Academic Center, featuring the many written works of our patron saint and noted scholar, St. Albert the Great, to the College seal embedded in the walkway of Aquinas Hall, named for Albert's most famous student, St. Thomas Aquinas, our mission and heritage come alive for our contemporary students.

Experiential Learning is a newer tradition at Albertus but deeply rooted in our mission. Students and faculty participate in shared research and collaborative learning. Annually, the College hosts Experiential Learning Day in the St. Albert Atrium of the Tagliatela Academic Center. In this space, students are literally and figuratively surrounded by the Dominican motto, Contemplata aliis tradere: to contemplate and give to others the fruits of that contemplation. At Albertus, students of all ages and backgrounds are connected by a passion for learning.

Albertus is a member of NCAA Division III Athletics and offers a robust roster of 14 varsity sports programs. Nearly 40% of our traditional students participate in varsity sports. The Albertus Falcons continue a proud tradition of competition, sportsmanship and fair play. Athletic competition at Albertus promotes leadership development and camaraderie that last a lifetime.

In May 2012, Albertus launched a new collaborative strategic planning initiative. This year-long engagement is based on an approach developed by Patrick Sanaghan, Ed.D., a noted author and higher education strategic planning expert. The process engages faculty, staff, students, alumni, local businesses and non-profit organizations, and community leaders. The final plan will guide the College's strategic direction over the next five years.

According to a 13th century contemporary, Albert was a man "so superior in every science that he can fittingly be called the wonder and miracle of our time."

Annual Report 2011–2012

The Mission of Albertus Magnus College

STATEMENT OF MISSION

The mission of Albertus Magnus College is to provide men and women with an education that promotes the search for truth in all its dimensions and is practical in its application. Founded by the Dominican Sisters of Saint Mary of the Springs, Albertus Magnus College, faithful to its Catholic heritage and the Judeo-Christian tradition, remains dedicated to providing an opportunity for learning which responds to the academic needs and ethical challenges of its students and of society.

This mission of Albertus Magnus College derives from the intellectual tradition of the Dominican Order whose essential charism is the search for truth (Veritas). Reflective of the dedication and commitment to service of our founder and sponsor, we at Albertus assume responsibility for the fulfillment of our particular service as an academic community.

Dear Alumni and Friends of Albertus,

In this the 87th year in the life of Albertus Magnus College, we are grateful for your unwavering support and continuing generosity. I am pleased to report that during the 2011–2012 fiscal year, through careful and prudent management, we have continued to remain financially healthy and free of long-term debt.

These are challenging times for institutions of higher learning and for the families of many of our students. Cutbacks in state grants for financial aid can make it increasingly difficult for students to gather the resources they need to make a college education a reality. This is why your support is so important, and why we make every possible effort to provide students with a high-quality education that will serve them well in the coming years.

Here at Albertus, a Catholic College in the Dominican Tradition, we are ever mindful of our mission—to provide an education that seeks the truth in all its dimensions and is practical in its application. In addition, we embrace the goal of the Dominican Order—to contemplate and to give to others the fruits of that contemplation. All that we do here is rooted in these enduring ideals. I hope that you will take a few minutes to read more about our centuries-old Dominican Tradition, and what it means to this College in the 21st century, in the pages of From the Hill, which surround this Annual Report.

It is ever an honor and a privilege for me to serve the College in this, the 30th year of my presidency. Over the years, our distinguished faculty and our dedicated staffs have accomplished much as have sought to ensure that Albertus responds effectively to the signs of the times and to the particular requirements of education in the information technology age. Our focus is on our students and the best ways for us to make sure that they are able to fulfill their dreams of completing their college education. This past spring we began work on a collaborative strategic plan, seeking the valuable comments of faculty, staff, students, alumni and community leaders on what works here or what can be improved. We who serve the College are excited about this process and the part that we all can play in continuing to render Albertus the very best it can be.

I thank you for your support and care for the mission and purposes of Albertus Magnus College.

Faithfully yours,

plin M. M. Arman

1925 Club

Established by the Alumni Association Board of Governors in 2010, the 1925 Club recognizes first-time donors to the College. The 1925 Club is named for the founding year of the College—the first year of Albertus—and honors those alumni who have chosen to become supporters of their alma mater this year.

Friends and Parents

The College's mission and Dominican Tradition resonate with many individuals who are not graduates of the institution. They have established meaningful connections with Albertus and are an important part of our College Community. Their support is truly appreciated.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE GROWTH OF ATHLETICS AT ALBERTUS

Tennis, anyone? The sport was one of the first played on campus

1950s & 1960s

Other sports, like golf, provided recreation, but the most competitive field was the bridge table

1970s

Club sports, including judo and soccer, continued to thrive

1980s

College became coed, and athletics became intercollegiate. The Fencing Club was popular

1990s

College joined the Great Northeast Athletic Conference; the student-athlete becomes an important part of our campus culture

2000s

Men's and women's teams hit their stride, continuing to rack up conference titles

2010s

Men's basketball team earned its first win in an NCAA Division III tournament; new turf field dedicated in 2011

Who Has a Problem We Can Solve?

Albertus knows all about problem-solving. The College itself resulted from a need expressed by parents for a Catholic college in the New Haven area. Mother Stephanie Mohun, O.P., turned the problem into a vision that resulted in Albertus Magnus College.

In the 1970s, many women who had left college to marry and raise their families were now ready to join the workforce. The problem: lack of a degree. Sister Marie Louise Hubert, O.P., then president of the College, started a small degree completion program called "Begin Again." A decade later this successful program became the model for our innovative accelerated degree program, tailored to the needs of the working adult learner. Its evening classes were convenient, and the schedule was userfriendly. In short, it was "doable." Adult programs continue to be a vibrant part of our college community. Problem solved.

The undergraduate specialization in art therapy at Albertus always has been very popular. A graduate degree was becoming the standard for advancement in this growing field. Several Albertus students expressed dismay that no college in the state offered a master's degree in Art Therapy. Albertus professor Dr. Ragaa Mazen saw the need and designed the curriculum for the intensive program. Today, the Master of Arts in Art Therapy program at Albertus attracts students from around the country. It remains the only program of its kind in Connecticut.

Most recently, Dr. Mazen was instrumental in developing the Master of Science in Human Services degree at Albertus to meet the advanced education needs for professionals in the field of health and human services. Seeing the need for outcome-based professional development among elementary and middle-school math teachers, Dr. Loel Tronsky proposed "Project Algebra: Preparing College-Ready Students Using a Standards-Based Curriculum, Year 3" for a 2012 Teacher Quality Partnership Grant. The State of Connecticut's Department of Higher Education awarded Albertus a $185,347 grant to fund the project, which Dr. Tronsky is directing. The project helps enhance teaching skills by providing in-service math teachers in various public and parochial school districts with high-quality professional development related to the teaching of algebra.

Albertus also is helping to meet the need for remedial reading and remedial language arts teachers in Connecticut. The Advanced Alternative Preparation Program is a thirteen-month, graduatelevel offering to currently certified Connecticut teachers with a master's degree and at least five years of full-time teaching experience. An important part of the curriculum is a tutorial practicum where teachers work with students from St. Martin de Porres School in New Haven. This is the eighth year the College's Education Programs department has administered this alternative route to certification program under the auspices of the Connecticut State Department of Education.

Mary Benevento Fund for Athletics

This newly-established fund is named for Mary Benevento, the director of athletics at Albertus from 1952 to 1980. Former student-athlete Tabitha "Tab" Wazorko Manafort '94 was inspired to make a leadership gift to jump-start the fund in honor of her years at Albertus.

"I am so proud to be able to give back to Albertus...My years at Albertus were, and continue to be, so very special to me. This donation is one way to show my deep and heartfelt 'thank you' to our alma mater. To be a part of the Mary Benevento Fund for Athletics, and a part of Dr. Julia McNamara's 30th Anniversary celebration, makes it all the more special!"

CAMPUS NEWS

he Albertus mission—to provide an education that pursues the search for truth in all its dimensions and is practical in its application—and the Dominican motto Contemplata aliis tradere—to contemplate and give to others the fruits of that contemplation—are the bedrock of all we do here. All around us are reminders of what has come before: the titles of St. Albert's works incised on a water wall, floor tiles representing major dates in the College's history in the St. Albert Atrium, the College's seal embedded in the walkway in front of Aquinas Hall and the bronze statue representing Albert the Great at the entrance to the Tagliatela Academic Center.

Here, students are encouraged to become responsible and productive citizens. They are, simultaneously, members of the College community and the larger community beyond the College's gateways. In September, students serving on the Residential Life staff, pictured above, took part in the American Diabetes Association's Step Out for Diabetes Walk, held in West Haven. Albertus was one of 70 teams, with more than 800 participants walking to raise awareness of diabetes.

Living the Mission

Focus on Faculty

Christine Atkins, assistant professor of foreign languages and director of the Honors Program, has accepted the position of coordinator of foreign languages. She holds a B.A. and M.A. from the University of Chicago, and the Ph.D. in Spanish and Portuguese from Yale University. Atkins joined the faculty in 2008.

Robert Bourgeois, assistant professor of social sciences and head of the Global Studies Program, has been promoted to the rank of associate professor of anthropology and humanities. He received his B.A. from Yale University, and M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. Bourgeois joined the Albertus faculty in 2005.

Patricia Compagnone-Post's essay, "Base-pairing preferences, physicochemical priorities, and mutational behavior of the DNA lesion 9-nitroguanine," has been published in the journal Nucleic Acids Research, an Oxford University publication. The paper is the result of research she conducted while at the University of Liverpool last year. Compagnone-Post, associate professor of biology, holds a B.S. from Emmanuel College, M.S. from the University of Pennsylvania and the Ph.D. from the University of Pittsburgh.

Lisa Furman, assistant professor of psychology in the Master of Arts in Art Therapy program, will have her book "Ethics in Art Therapy: Challenging Topics for a Complex Modality" published by Jessica Kingsley Publishers in London. She presented a paper, "Ethical considerations: Clients with cognitive limitations in research and treatment," at the School of Visual Arts in New York City as part of Art Therapy Program Community Lecture Series in September. She has a B.F.A. from Rhode Island School of Design and M.A.A.T. from New York University.

Robert Imholt, professor of history and chair of the department of history and political science, ran a session at the spring meeting of the New England Historical Association. In November he delivered a paper, "The War of 1812 and the Future of America: The Fast Day Sermons of Timothy Dwight," at a conference on Connecticut and the War of 1812 sponsored by Connecticut College and the Association for the Study of Connecticut History. He holds a B.A. from Washington and Lee University, and M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Kentucky.

Karen Kendrick, assistant professor of sociology, who joined the Albertus faculty in 2005, has been promoted to the rank of associate professor. She received her B.A. from the State University of New York, Stony Brook, and two M.A.'s and the Ph.D. from the University of California, Irvine.

Evie Lindemann, assistant professor of art therapy and clinical coordinator of the Master of Arts in Art Therapy program, has been promoted to the rank of associate professor. She received her B.A. from the University of California, Berkeley, M.A. from John F. Kennedy University and M.A.A.T. from Albertus Magnus College. Lindemann joined the Albertus faculty in 2005. Abbe Miller, assistant professor of art therapy and director of the Master of Arts in Art Therapy program, is the cover artist and created figure drawings for the text of "Generative Trance: The Experience of Creative Flow" by Stephen Gilligan, Ph.D., published in November by Crown House Publishers in London. She has a B.A. from Wesleyan University, M.S. from the University of Bridgeport and ATR-BC, LPC.

Clara Munson, professor of business, was elected chairperson of the Board of Directors of the International Assembly for Collegiate Business Education, the accrediting organization for all business programs at the College. She holds a B.A. from the University of Louisville, M.B.A. from the University of New Haven and the Ph.D. from the Union Institute and University.

Suzanne Palmieri, lecturer in sociology, has had two novels accepted for publication by St. Martin's Press: "The Witch of Little Italy" and "I'll Be Seeing You." Both also were sold to Garzanit Libri for publication in Italy, and "I'll Be Seeing You" has been bought by the French publisher Belfond. Palmieri holds a B.A. from Albertus Magnus College and M.A. from Fordham University.

James Patsalides, assistant professor of management, has been elected to the advisory board of the Journal of Sustainability Education. He received a B.S. from the University of Kent at Canterbury, Christ Church College, M.S. at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Paul Robichaud, associate professor of English, associate dean of the Traditional Undergraduate Day Program and chair of the department of English, has had his essay, "T.S. Eliot's Christian Sociology and the Problem of Nationalism," accepted for publication in "T.S. Eliot and Christian Tradition," ed. Ben Lockerd, Fairleigh-Dickinson University Press, 2013. Robichaud also has been invited to contribute an essay on British modernist poet David Jones for a collection on "new approaches" to Jones's work. Robichaud received his B.A. and M.A. from the University of Western Ontario and the Ph.D. from the University of Toronto.

Hilda Speicher, associate professor of psychology and coordinator of psychology in the Division of Evening Undergraduate and Graduate Programs, will give a talk at the School of Visual Arts in New York City in December. Her topic is "Exploring Intimacy Deficits and Skills: Measuring Intimacy Capability and Motivation and Their Correlation to Intimacy Behavior and Imagery." She holds a B.A. from the City University of New York, and M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Delaware.

Matt Waggoner, associate professor of philosophy and religion, has had two essays on Hegel accepted for publication in Blackwell Publishers Religion Compass journal. In November, he will present a paper, "Reset Fantasies: Starting Over in Hegel, Science, and Science Fiction," at the American Academy of Religion national conference in Chicago. He has a B.A. from Evangel University, M.A. from Southwest Missouri State University and Ph.D. from the University of California, Santa Cruz.

Sarah Wallman, assistant professor of English, was a finalist for Salem College's Reynolds Price Award, and her short story, "Waiting for the Night Music," was published on storySouth.com. She has a B.A. and M.F.A. from the University of Pittsburgh.

CLASS NOTES

For generations, Albertus Magnus College has prepared students to "become responsible, productive citizens and lifelong learners, encouraging them to contribute to their communities and to become moral leaders in a complex world" (Mission Statement: Principles that guide us). Ever since the 12 women of the first graduating class in 1928 began sending notes back to the College telling of jobs and families, Class Notes reflect the responsible and productive lives our graduates have led as they fulfill the extraordinary promise of the Dominican motto: Contemplata aliis tradere—to contemplate and give to others the fruits of that contemplation.

Alumna and Trustee Receives Book Awards for Her Family Memoir

Tomoko Takahashi '77, a member of the College's Board of Trustees since 1996, has been named winner of the 2012 Next Generation Indie Book Award in the Autobiography category for her memoir, "Samurai and Cotton: A Story of Two Life Journeys in Japan and America." The book, a tribute to her father, family and ancestors, also is an awardwinning finalist in the Autobiography/Memoir category of the 2012 International Book Awards. "Samurai and Cotton" is the English edition, which she translated from her original Japanese edition. Two chapters describe her experiences at Albertus from 1975 to 1977.

"I am humbled by this honor," Takahashi says. "Translating my own book into English, my second language, was a unique and rewarding experience." She notes that she could the translation herself, in "my own voice." Takahashi, who came to the United States from Japan at the age of 20, earned her doctorate in applied linguistics from Columbia University in 1984. She currently serves as provost and vice president for academic affairs at Soka University in Aliso Viejo, California, where she is also dean of the Graduate School and professor of linguistics and education.

Letter from an Alumna

"I am a graduate of the Class of 1987 and still wear my Albertus ring! I love it, wear it every day and get lots of compliments on it. I am always proud to say I went to Albertus.

"Currently, I am the domestic adoption program manager for Wide Horizons for Children, a large New England-based adoption agency. I've been there for almost 15 years. I received my M.S.W. from the University of Connecticut in 1995, and have helped children from all over the globe to join their forever families. My work has allowed me to travel to China—my eighth trip was in April of this year—and Ethiopia. I've also traveled to Guatemala to adopt my daughters, Olivia, now 12 and Jenna, 9. My spouse, Marilyn, and I were fortunate to travel back to Guatemala with our daughters in 2009.

"I think often of my time at Albertus and the fabulous faculty who were so dedicated to educating us; they really prepared me for the rigors of graduate school and for the rigors of the workplace. I am grateful for my liberal arts education and for the fact that Albertus educated me as a whole person." Mary Guzauckas Fournier

Turner Award, a lifetime achievement honor that celebrates the "best and brightest GED® graduates who have made outstanding contributions in the areas of education, justice, health/medicine, public service or social welfare." Porter is a high school credit counselor at the New Haven Adult Education Center. Her citation read, in part: "Tahisha Porter understands struggle: a broken home, homelessness at 13, single motherhood at 15, and being a high school dropout. But she also understands the power of education to overcome obstacles." She earned her GED test credential and went on to earn a B.S. in management at Albertus where she is currently enrolled in the Master of Science in Education program. She has worked for 15 years at New Haven Adult Education Center, inspiring thousands who face the same challenges that she has conquered. Her goal is to become a school administrator so that she can bring about positive change. "I do my best to provide all in my charge with the tools necessary to become successful," she says.

Marggraff receives research award from the American Art Therapy Association

Sarah Marggraff, who received a Master of Arts in Art Therapy degree this year, is the 2012 recipient of the prestigious Gladys Agell Research Award given by the American Art Therapy Association. The award is determined through a blind review of submitted research from art therapists around the world. Her thesis was "Using the Eight Frame Colored Squiggle Technique to Stimulate Insight."

This is the third consecutive year that the recipient of the research award has been a graduate of the Albertus art therapy program. Last year, Roxanne Crane '11 M.A.A.T., received the award; she is a full-time art therapist at Oak Hill Treatment Facility. Amanda Salzano '10 M.A.A.T., who was honored in 2010, works part-time as an art therapist at Hospice and at a pre-school for special needs children. She also runs a cancer survivor support group at MidState Medical Center.

Marggraff is the new director of art therapy at Winchester Youth Service Bureau, where she works with at-risk youth ages 6–18 in individual and group counseling.

Anthony Cuozzo Promoted to Assistant Chief

In September, after a 22-year career with the Orange, Connecticut, Police Department, Anthony Cuozzo has been appointed to the position of assistant chief. He received his bachelor's degree in 2008 and Master of Arts in Leadership in 2010, both from Albertus. He had left college more than 20 years ago to pursue a different career path, but knew that eventually he would need to complete his undergraduate degree. Cuozzo found the solution in accelerated adult evening programs here at Albertus.

"The program was the perfect fit for me and my family," he says. "I really fell in love with this school and decided to continue on for my master's. Now, I find myself teaching in the undergraduate criminal justice program as an adjunct professor. I can share my more than 20 years of experience in the real world of policing with both day and evening students."

Cuozzo has participated in the Criminal Justice Summer Camp here at Albertus since it was created by the admission department in 2010.

Diana Velez Joins Peace Corps; Assigned to Uganda

If anyone told Diana Velez '12 when she arrived at Albertus that six months after graduation she would be teaching in Uganda as member of the Peace Corps, she would not have believed it. Her plan was to follow a pre-med track and go on to medical school. She majored in biology, with a minor in Spanish and chemistry, and graduated summa cum laude. While at Albertus she held two summer internships at the University of Connecticut as part of the Northeast Alliance Research Experience for Undergraduates Program. Although the work in a research lab was interesting, she found that she was becoming more attracted to the public health field. She applied to, and was selected for, the Summer Clinical and Translational Research Program last year at Harvard University's School of Public Health. In Boston, she worked with Somali Bantu refugees.

"I met so many wonderful people at Harvard—faculty, staff and other students who really inspired me, especially to pursue an international experience after graduation," she says. "I decided to look into the Peace Corps and started a long and complex application process." Velez was accepted, and in July found out that she would be going to Uganda. In November, after a month's visit with her parents, who live in Puerto Rico, she will head to Kampala for training and then to her assigned village.

"I will work as a secondary science teacher there for 27 months," she says. "I hope to be the best volunteer and American ambassador I can be, and expect this experience to be one of the most exciting and life-changing experiences I will ever encounter."

Barbara Leitao, '09 M.S.M., East Windsor, CT, IT project manager at Cigna, is a change agent and mentor for displaced workers. She enjoys working out at the gym.

2008 5th Reunion June 8, 2013

2009 5th Reunion June 14, 2014

Danny Holtsclaw, Andover, CT, received a Master of Professional Studies (M.P.S.) in Homeland Security Leadership from the University of Connecticut in 2011. He notes that this highly specialized degree is designed for "private and public sector experts with the responsibility of leading state and municipal agencies and private organizations through catastrophic events, including terrorism, natural disaster and critical infrastructure failures."

Cheryl Hutchinson, Guilford, CT, a summa cum laude graduate, has accepted the position of chief human resources officer for FM Facility Maintenance in Hartford, a half-billion dollar company with 350 employees.

Kyle Long, Danielson, CT, was sworn in as a Norwich police officer; he will complete training at the Connecticut Police Academy this fall. A trained firefighter, he is a volunteer at the Dayville Fire Department. He earned his bachelor's degree in criminal justice.
